

Creating Your Gifted Register

- ★ Decide on the function of your register to help you determine what information it should include. Possible functions:
  - To keep a record of who has been identified as gifted.
  - To keep a record of the specific needs of each identified individual.
  - To enable you to readily locate students with ability in a specific field who may be grouped together or targeted for a specific relevant activity.
  - To keep a record of the provisions actually made for each student who has been identified as gifted so that you can check that each individual's needs are being adequately met.
  - To show you who is currently participating in what form of provision.
  - To monitor the individual student's response to provisions made.
  - To keep a record of any special achievements by the student.
  - To show you how a student was identified so that you have a source of reference if you need further information about the student.
  - To assist in writing reports and providing other documentation (eg applications for scholarships) for individual students.
  - To provide basic data to assist in evaluating the school's provision for its gifted students, support requests for resources, etc.
- ★ Which of these points do you need to keep in a register?
- ★ Which do you need to keep in an attached database?
- ★ How will you use your register?